SleepRes V-Com™

Item#

CAP1026CNEW*Each

Helping patients adjust to CPAP on their own

Adding V-Com to a patient's therapy is like Training Wheels for CPAP™. This simple device can mean the difference between your patient giving up on PAP or continuing their lifesaving treatment.

Within minutes, a respiratory therapist can show a patient what the PAP pressure feels like with and without the V-Com device inline. This feedback mechanism allows them to better understand how their airflow should feel.

As you know, comfort equals adherence and adherence equals better treatment outcomes.

The V-Com Difference

Improve early PAP tolerance with V-Com by providing your patients with initial comfort that doesn't compromise their treatment.

Traditionally, when a patient struggles with the constant flow of air pressure, pressure settings are reduced.

Reducing pressure settings to increase a patient's initial tolerance improves comfort, but at a cost.

Decreasing pressure settings also means decreasing expiratory positive airway pressure (EPAP) which is principally responsible for therapy.

The V-Com effect is flow-dependent with its maximum comforting effect during the high inspiratory flows. As a result, V-Com has minimal effect on expiratory positive airway pressure.

Assured, repeatable accuracy to enable safe, effective weaning.

What is Microflow used for?

Microflow is primarily used to supply supplementary oxygen to infants with bronchopulmonary dysplasia (BPD).

BPD is common in very low birth weight and pre-term infants that have needed mechanical ventilation or have been treated with high oxygen concentrations due to respiratory distress syndrome (RDS)/chronic lung disease (CLD).

The risk of RDS/CLD is inversely related to birth weight and gestational age.

Infants may need very low supplementary oxygen for many months to compensate for underdeveloped lungs.

Microflow benefits

- Enables baby to receive oxygen therapy at home, putting families together sooner and increasing parent satisfaction
- Less time in hospital, lower cost of care
- Accurate, repeatable steps
- Micro step changes in flow
- Enables low flow rates to achieve target saturation
- Enables oxygen flow to be weaned
